

Carol Armorosi

Author-Amateur Historian-Traveler-Celtic Enthusiast

History permeates almost everything Carol enjoys. Just ask her family! Carol believes we can learn a lot from the past and insists that history can be fun!

Over the years, Carol has put her passion for history to good use, volunteering on archaeological digs and as an interpreter at historic sites. Her interests span periods from the ancient Celts to the Revolutionary War. When she's not researching, Carol enjoys gardening, especially learning about their culinary and medicinal uses in the past.

Recently, Carol and her husband, Dave, returned to Virginia after 13 years in Europe along with their two cats and Widgit, the History Hound, who joins them on their escapades.